TeacherEase Program Helps Parents And Students

In an effort to communicate student performance in a more effective manner, the Lawrence County School System has implemented an Internet-based system to correspond with parents.

The TeacherEase Program allows parents to log-in and view their child's course assignments, attendance, cumulative average, and daily grades. It allows parents to be more involved which results in students working harder and everybody wins!

This program enables parents and teachers to correspond via email when notable events in your child's classes occur. In addition, they can better communicate without playing "phone tag." TeacherEase is offered to all Lawrence County parents and students at no charge.

Elementary parents Jay & Sheila Piovarcy share, "We were on the grading site Sunday night and my son's teacher had posted his grades from his tests he had taken Friday. This new system is fantastic. What a great start to the school year and what a great use of technology to keep the parents involved."

If you would like to participate in this program, please download the TeacherEase form from the LCSS website or ask your child's teacher for a form to complete and return it to the school.

For a parent to gain access to TeacherEase, their account must be setup by a teacher or the school office.

Parents will then receive an email message with your child's log-in and password information. Upon login, the parent can access their student(s) information only.

Improving communication between parents and teachers will result in greater academic achievement of our students.

With TeacherEase, parents can check a student's current assignments. Did they get tonight's homework done yet? If they were absent, what do they need to make up?

Parents can verify their child's current averages and get details while praising a student doing well. It allows guardians to motivate students not working to their full potential and seek help for struggling students.

Students can also login to TeacherEase. This program allows students to check their own information and hopefully motivate themselves to do better.

If you have any questions or comments about TeacherEase please contact the school your child is attending.
